The above pictures were to have accompanied the story last week of Johnny Saulo and his experiences during the war. However the plates did not arrive from the platemakers in time.

Straight Forward And Impressive Speech Highlights Remembrance Day Service

Remembrance Day was observed in Coleman on Wednesday, the 11th November. The parade lined up at the Legion Club at 9:45 a.m., and led by the RCMP and pipe band under the leadership of Pipe Major J. Moore marched to the Roxy Theatre where an impressive religious service was held.

The theatre was filled and the singing of hymns with Miss Dianne Dickinson at the piano with volunteer choristers from the churches assisted much in adding to the service.

Mr. Harry Wilton Clarke, hon. president local branch of the Legion, was chairman, and gave a few remarks. Miss K. Hubert of the United Church, said the prayers and Lieut. VanSchick of the Salvation Army, read the scripture. Padre Moss gave the address.

In the parade was a detachment of the RCMPES under the command of Lieut. E. A. Fontana, cadets, Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Legionnaires, Polish vets, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion.

At the Cenotaph after the service the firing party under the command of Sgt. J. Lowe and Staff Sgt. M. Drew as parade marshal, rendered last honors to the Dead. While Comrade Robert Parry, M.M., and president of the Legion read the Honor Roll for those who died in the First War of 1914-18; and Capt. M. Cooke read the roll for those who gave their lives in the war of 1939-45.

A special seating accommodation was provided for the next-of-kin of the men who paid the Supreme Sacrifice.

Wreaths were laid upon the Cenotaph by the Mayor of Coleman, Mr. Frank Abousaffy; and representatives of the Legion, the churches and other societies. The pipe band played the Lament, always a very impressive event and the Last Post and Reveille was given by Comrade James Lowe, a veteran of the First War.

There was a very fine turnout of youth in the uniform of Boy Scouts and Cubs, under their leaders, Messrs. P. Dehecco, Nelson and G. Rushon. The Brownies were led by Mrs. McQuarrie. The army cadets under S. M. Browne, looked very smart and efficient in training, whilst the RCMPES, as usual, did credit to their military discipline and training.

All these organizations deserve credit and congratulations upon their appearance.

The Polish veterans formed a distinctive and brave parade. In their uniforms, made picturesque by many decorations and ribbons bespeaking the active service and real experience of some of the most difficult of campaigns, these men are to be signally honored as being symbolic of the fight for freedom. Bearing their honored standard and colors, Coleman is proud to count these allied comrades as citizens of Canada and extend the hand of warm friendship to a small band of survivors representative of a gallant nation. Veterans of two wars marched in the parade, some in uniform, many in civilian clothes, all wearing decorations, all honored by the people of the community as men of whom Canada may well be proud.

"O Canada, with pride—look up and greet the morn
Since of thy wounded side—
such breed of men is born."

Most significant of the Day is the small band of men and women aged and recollecting. These are the fathers, mothers, wives, and next-of-kin of those whose names are inscribed upon the Honor Roll. These are given a seat of honor upon this annual occasion. What more shall be given them? A place in our hearts, a silent salute. And reverence for their memories of those loved and given.

"For lonely graves along the country side—where sleep those brave hearts who for others died—tell of life's union with the Crucified". We pray that these spirits of just men made perfect in death shall rest in peace and Light perpetual shine upon them.

The observance of Remembrance Day is devoid of martial splendor and pomp. It is a Day of Remembrance and high resolve.

It is not a time for parading in proud boastfulness for the Task is as yet unfinished. If we look back on the past it is for inspiration to become better men and women.

Many there are who would wish to seek the silence alone. Impelled by invisible forces to "Be still then and know that I am God". The three R's are surely Remembrance, Recollection, Resolve.

The Coleman men taking part in Remembrance Day observances after the ceremonies here proceeded to Blairmore and took part in the parade there. The Honor Guard, Firing Party, Pipe Band, RCMPES, Cadets, all assisted in the Blairmore Legion program.

Hospitality was dispensed in the Legion Club after.

Padre Moss Delivers Address

The word "patriot" is seldom used today. Patriotism, of course, essentially is love of country. But love without devotion, like faith without works, is dead. It is mere pretence. Any man who says that he loves his country even if he served it in war, and who on national occasions or a day like this, conspicuously displays his country's flag or don a poppy, but is never seen under any circumstances devoting himself to the welfare of his country or cause, is a pseudo-patriot, and to speak plainly, is a liar.

Many are firmly convinced that the only way to maintain security, stability and prosperity is loyalty to support the government in whatever it proposes to do. And the same with any cause a man gives himself to. But does it follow that this is always true and righteous altogether? Is there not a distinction between love of country and love of a cause and uncritical support of whatever the leaders propose to do?

Said Jesus in one of the noblest and most significant utterances ever delivered the world. The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. Should not this principle then apply to any and every human institution? The State was made for man for the State. "As B.C. was made for ex-service men not ex-service men for the Legion."

Listen to these words "This country with its institutions belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of existing government they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to overthrow it."

This sentiment was not expressed by Lenin, Trotsky, Stalin or Malenkov or Tim Buck. It was expressed by Abraham Lincoln.

Once it is clearly seen that this principle does not apply to government something far truer and nobler than the popular one-time conception of patriotism begins to appear. For then patriotism can be divorced from an uncritical, unconditional allegiance and can be associated with an intelligent devotion to the highest welfare of any cause whether it be government, church or Legion. What I mean to imply is this:

"Patriotism or love of country must be intelligent.
Loyalty to any one cause may be blind."

Forty years ago I enlisted in the Imperial army to fight in the First War, as it was named. Could it be that I served just for two bits a day as a private soldier? Could it have been for king, country (God)? The philosophy of serving in that day was summed up in this: "Theirs not to make reply; theirs not to reason why; theirs but to do and die." And this inglorious conception of devotion to God, king and country filled countless graves and emptied millions of homes.

I love my country and I love the BESL, C.L., but I do not necessarily have to be blind to their faults.

As a padre I must love my fellow-men everywhere, but I am not blind to their faults or to my own.

I'd much rather be considered a rebel than sit by and see my country, my Legion, my fellow-men making mistakes and not criticize (intelligently)—so on this annual Day of Remembrance—What do we remember? Certainly I remember the Dead. And I try to remember the Living. And it is the Dead who inspire me to my utmost best for the Living. I remember my comrades who fought alongside me, both living and dead. I remember the wonderful spirit of comradeship that existed among us. Did any of us suffer lack of true comradeship because Bill was a Roman Catholic, Bob an Anglican, Sam, a Salvationist, George, a Baptist? Indeed, no. I doubt if it ever gave it a thought.

I remember all this and more. And I wonder today where is that true spirit—I remember that Canada did not win either war, nor the U. S. A., nor Britain—but all three helped immensely with other nations like Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland, and others. And this fact today continued on page four

Future Is Ahead Says Dickieson

Board Of Trade Members Pay Tribute To Percy Dickieson

The banquet room of the Grand Hotel was packed last Monday night when Coleman Board of Trade and a delegation from the Blairmore Board assembled to honor Percy Dickieson who is leaving to make his home in Calgary. The special meeting showed the esteem in which Percy is held, many being present that have not attended Board meetings for some time.

President J. R. Hill presided over the gathering and introduced to the assembly President Huntley, Dr. Burgess, E. Basso and T. Cosigan, as representatives of the Blairmore Board. Mr. Huntley spoke of the association between Mr. Dickieson and Blairmore, reading a motion that had been passed expressing regrets at his departure.

To these remarks Percy replied that he had been pleased to work with Blairmore on matters of mutual interest, and as he looks back over the years he could feel some satisfaction and some disappointment, feeling that the two towns could have co-operated a little more to make this area even greater.

Adam Wilson, Percy's first neighbor in Coleman, gave a few humorous remarks of the Dickieson's as he knew them, at the same time expressing regret in the loss of a personal friend.

Mayor Abousaffy completed the messages of regret when he paid glowing tribute to the honored guest. Something should be done by a town to remember these men that have helped to make it what it is today, the mayor asserted. When Percy came to Coleman the town was experiencing a lull and he soon made his mark. Percy never shirked a duty and has always met responsibilities even though when the going was tough the task was usually handed to him.

His achievements are many but possibly one of the best and most recent was "Yours To Remember". For years night shows had been brought in for the rodeo and money lost. For years Percy expressed the opinion that we could put on a show of our own. Finally he was listened to and handed the task of producing this show. He did not do it alone, but the project was his. We all know the success that it was. There isn't a community anywhere that does not feel the effect of men such as Percy... men with high minded ideas.

Percy was born in Calgary and educated at Central high school before being employed for 11 years with the Purify Flour Mills. Coming to Coleman in 1947 he soon became part of community life. Active in church work, he served as Sunday School superintendent and various other phases of the United Church; was the second president of the Board of Trade, and served two terms; president of the Lions Club and president of the Alberta section of the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association.

Following his remarks Mayor Abousaffy presented the guest with a silver cream and sugar set and a purse of money.

The Balance Is Yet To Be Made In The Past

"When I left Calgary and came to Coleman," Mr. Dickieson said, in reply to the speakers, "we had left our friends and families behind. All I knew was that I was coming to a better job with more pay. I figured to stay here for five years, make my fortune and return. I have made that fortune all right, but not the way I had anticipated. Fortunes cannot be counted in dollars and cents."

"It has been a privilege to live here among you and it is with reluctance that we return. This is a terrific country and I never fail to be amazed at the tremendous possibilities and wealth that God has bequeathed us here in Alberta and B. C. I am not leaving because I do not think there is a future here. Our future still lies ahead of us."

"At the moment we are going through a time of trial. This is not the first time nor will it be the last. Checking the history of the industry you can see that there have been times when men were ready to throw in the sponge, then have coal make its comeback. I remember one time when I was balancing the books and couldn't account for 3c. An older man told me that it would get worse before I found the solution, and at one time before the balance was reached I was short $3.93. The time is coming when the balance is going to be made here in the Crows Nest Pass."

"I don't think it will be too long till we will be using our coal for power. Already the northwestern United States is experiencing a power shortage. We have here a very particular type of coal—coking coal—industrial coal. A steel industry is bound to be established in the west, not necessarily in the past, but in the west. If it does our coal will be needed."

"I am not leaving because I see no future for the area; my leaving is primarily a family consideration.

"I value the acquaintances that I have made in Coleman, and if you ever have to leave here, you, too, will go as we, rich in the knowledge that you have had a wonderful experience. Small communities offer greater opportunities for men. I was lucky or I would not have accomplished what I did or made the friends that I have."

The Coleman Collieries staff party was held at Turtle Mountain Playgrounds last Wednesday night with supper and dancing. Each lady in attendance was presented with a corsage.

During the evening Harry Wilton Clarke presented Mrs. P. Dickieson with a bouquet of flowers and Mr. Dickieson with a travelling bag.

Between 130 and 140 attended the event MC'd by Sid Short, and it is hoped that it will become an annual function.

REVEALING SMILE—A little girl's love for new finery is universal, and the proof is in the smile on this young Korean orphan's face. The happy youngster is being fitted for a new sweater by Marine M/Sgt. Richard S. Graham at a Marine-sponsored orphanage in Korea. Clothing was donated by a women's church auxiliary of Onancock, Va.

HOW HIGH THE KILT?—It's too chilly in New York for Bermuda shorts these days, so some of the boys are considering kilts as an antifreeze measure. But what's the proper length? One authority says a kilt should be three inches from the floor when the wearer is kneeling. So here's kilted and comely Janet Burrell checking the length of Trig Carter's kilt. Looking on is Lois Gifford, executive of a men's underwear firm who naturally is vitally concerned with what a Scotsman wears under the kilt.

TAKES OVER IMPORTANT POST—A man who got his first taste of aviation and international co-operation when he served as a U.S. Marine Corps fighter pilot with the Royal Navy Air Arm in World War I, is the new United States representative on the Council of the International Civil Aviation Organization. Harold Armstrong Jones, a lawyer by profession, has taken over this important post, which carries with it the rank of minister, as the representative of the new U.S. Republican government.

CANADIAN COLBALT BOMB REACHES ITALY—Onlookers gather around a truck in front of S. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"DETERMINATION"

By Alfred Harris Albert Found the Undetermined Girl Determined

McKAY was her last name, and when she sat down at the boarding house table Albert felt disturbed. It was when she asked him to pass the salt that the amazing thing happened. Her hand brushed his. Albert felt his heart leap.

That night he wasn't able to sleep. He kept thinking of Miss McKay, her dark hair and eyes, and her fair complexion. Albert was in love!

In the morning, he learned that her first name was Laura; that she did secretarial work, and that she was unemployed at present. No matter how he tried, Albert was unable to speak to her. Not even to ask her for the salt. He felt miserable. At dinner he spit the gravy on her. She was wonderful about it. She smiled and said something about accidents happening. Albert decided then and there that he had to marry her.

It shouldn't be so difficult, he thought. He knew he did have some attraction for women. After all, one of the girls in the office had been attracted to him, so his associates told him. They had said that a little blonde in the ledger department had "gone overboard" for him. Albert couldn't quite recall her name. It was Flora, or something like that. His job brought him only rarely into the ledger department. The men had also told him that he had better look out; when a woman's determined about a man she usually gets him. Albert had scoffed. He didn't think a woman could be determined about anything. He was more certain of this when he heard that the blonde had quit and gone away.

"Just like a woman," he told himself, "no determination!"

But if he intended to win Miss McKay he would have to use determination. He became a new man. He started swinging his weight at the office. Results began to show. He was promoted and given a raise. His fellow workers looked up to him. He had become masterful—but he had not yet managed to tell Miss McKay of his love, although it was now two months since she entered his life.

Then something happened that forced Albert to action. One of the other boarders, an irresponsible, talkative fellow, took her dancing. Albert saw that if he didn't press his suit all would be lost. He searched his mind for an idea to break the ice. He recalled the blonde. Could he attract Miss McKay in the same way he had, unconsciously attracted that undetermined girl? His only contact with her had been when they had knocked each other down on the stairs. Albert, being a gentleman, had, of course, helped her pick up the ledgers she had been carrying.

Now, Albert mused, if he could knock Miss McKay down . . . It happened that very evening, a great deal easier than Albert had thought. It was as if fate, or something, had stepped in. Miss McKay fell neatly into his arms. After that, Albert managed to unloosen his tongue. Miss McKay co-operated splendidly.

Albert was so proud of himself and his determination that he actually asked Miss McKay to accompany him to a movie. To his joy, she accepted the invitation—with due hesitation, of course.

As the weeks passed, Albert grew more determined to marry Miss McKay, or rather Laura, as he now called her. Finally, walking home from the movies, he stopped her in front of a delicatessen and asked the vital question.

She hesitated. Time stopped for Albert. She was so beautiful and desirable, outlined against a string of smoked herring and salmon.

"Yes, Albert," she replied. "I will marry you."

Albert soared through the heavens and circled the sun.

"If what?" Albert trembled.

"If you promise that you'll love me just as much if my hair becomes another color."

Albert sighed for joy. "Of course," he said.

It wasn't until the wedding was over that Albert discovered that his wife's hair was really blonde; that she worked in the same office; and that it was quite possible to confuse Flora with Laura. (Copyright Wheeler Newspaper Syndicates)

Flin Flon Prefers To Be A Town

FLIN FLON, Man.—The voters of Flin Flon, with a thin 33 per cent. turnout, decided they do not want to change from a town to a city.

Results With Soil Conditioners

Considerable interest has been shown recently as to the value of certain synthetic chemicals, generally termed soil conditioners, which were found to possess soil-aggregating characteristics. A number of these chemicals have appeared on the market in the last few years under various trade names.

In 1952 and 1953 a synthetic chemical soil conditioner was tested on a limited scale at the Experimental Station, Scott, Sask. In 1952, the treatment of a clay loam soil with 0.02 per cent. of this chemical increased soil aggregation and also increased yield and quality of carrots grown on treated soil. In 1953, the growth and yields of oats and wheat grown on loam soil which was treated with 0.1 per cent. of soil conditioner were not significantly affected, although soil aggregation was increased.

In another test the application of 0.1 per cent. of this material to a clay loam soil in the fall of 1952 caused a marked increase in soil aggregate size, producing a characteristic "crumb" structure

Prairie-Born Girl Becomes Chief Stewardess

A prairie-born airline stewardess, Miss L. L. Houseman, R.N., has been appointed to the post of Chief Stewardess by Trans-Canada Air Lines. It was announced recently by the Company's head office in Montreal.

Born and educated at Central Butte, Sask., Miss Houseman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Houseman of that community, and prior to joining the airline graduated from the Toronto General Hospital as a registered nurse. Since 1944, Chief Stewardess (Billie) Houseman has served at TCA's stations in Moncton, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Calgary.

In 1946, Miss Houseman was appointed Stewardess-in-charge of the TCA central region, and in this capacity travelled extensively to interview approximately 400 young women for the position of stewardess. Now as the Chief Stewardess, Miss Houseman will be responsible for the supervision of TCA flight attendants and the training of 300 additional young women to keep pace with the rapid expansion of the Company and aviation generally.

One of a family of 10 children the TCA Chief Stewardess is well-known in aviation circles and a popular airline personality across TCA's 19,000 miles of routes. "My circle of friends has grown with TCA," said Miss Houseman. "When I first joined the airline we flew on 10-passenger aircraft, now the North Stars carry 48 people, and even larger planes are just over the horizon!"

First White Girl In Hamiota District Laid To Rest

By JANE DALE

Annie Margaret Hamilton, at the age of 14, left her farm home near Goderich, Ont., to journey to St. Agathe, Man. In the fall of the same year she moved to what is now the Hamiota district. Annie Margaret was the first white girl in the settlement. What was more, the little cluster of tents and rude buildings was given the name Hamilton because there were more Hamiltons in the cluster than of any other name. There was some confusion in the mail between Hamilton in Ontario and Hamilton in Manitoba so the new settlement compromised by calling their stopping place Hamiota. "Ham" in honor of the Hamiltons, and "iota" a small quantity or number.

Little is on record about the personal life of Annie Margaret Hamilton before her marriage to John Murray, a farmer, in 1883. As wife and mother she saw the district develop into one of the best grain growing communities in western Manitoba. Five daughters and eight sons were born to them. John Murray, a prominent man in the educational issues of the early days of the village, died in 1921, leaving his wife and sons to carry on the work he so ably started. Annie Margaret died on October 11th, 1933, at the good age of 87 years and 5 months.

Until the last week of her life, when sudden illness struck her, Annie Margaret retained all her faculties, was vitally interested in life about her. She stayed on the farm until 1934 when she went to live with a son at Kelowna, B.C. 1938 saw her back in Manitoba, and on the home farm once more. There she stayed for six years and only because some of her sons and daughters were already established in British Columbia did she again leave the farm to reside in Kamloops, B.C., with her son, Theodore. In the summer of 1961 Annie Margaret accompanied by her daughter Mary (Mrs. A. J. Elliott) visited the prairies once more. Those who saw her as she visited old friends and neighbors said she hadn't aged at all except for the slightly crippling effects of a broken hip suffered previously to her visit.

17-Year-Old Duck Shot

Just how it cooked up for eating, wasn't disclosed by Allan Huidahl, of Minot, N.D., when he reported shooting a Pintail duck which was at least 17½ years old.

Arriving at the age of the bird was a simple matter because it was a banded duck and the metal tag on the bird's leg gave the information that it had been banded by the Fish and Wildlife Branch of Washington, D.C., USA, in May, 1936.

Because it was banded at that time, it means the duck must have been at least a full-sized bird and at least six months old. It might even have been a few years older.

Mr. Huidahl shot the bird while hunting south of Torquay, Sask. He reported that the hunting wasn't too good as birds were not very plentiful, but at the same time he said "I got this one and another Pintail with one shot." The banded bird was a female Pintail.

This is the second banded bird Mr. Huidahl has shot. He knocked one down in 1946.

The information contained on the band has been forwarded by Mr. Huidahl to the Fish and Wildlife Branch at Washington. The complete legend was 836-04247. On bird bands the first series of figures gives the month and the year of banding.

CONSORT TO ILLUMINATE ITS STREETS

CONSORT, Alta.—The Village Council also sanctioned the Board of Trade request with regards to beautification and illumination of the town, and as a result holes are now being dug along the sidewalk by Mr. J. Skinner. These holes will accommodate the new poles which will be installed for street lighting purposes, as well as to support the strings of colored street lights which will be placed in the block from the Royal Bank to the Co-op Store. When this is completed, Consort should have one of the most impressive main streets of any town on the line, and the only thing that would further it would be the installation by the stores of neon signs.

Remembrance Day

makes me greatly concerned with all my comrades. I am concerned about all my comrades and others whom many in this land delight to name D.P.'s—I am much disturbed by our failure to exhibit the old spirit of comradeship to-day to our allied friends. And furthermore it isn't so much the Displaced Persons I'm worried about as the many Displaced Persons who cannot see my point. Nationalism is one dread cause of war.

Who today is upset by the fact that Shakespeare was an Englishman; Pasteur, a Frenchman; Dante, an Italian; Goethe, a German; Tolstol, a Russian. Jesus Christ, a Jew? Such men do not belong to any one nation. They belong to all nations. All that they represent, all of imperishable worth and glory and inspiration, is today the common heritage of mankind.

The times call for action in both secular and religious matters. We need to make up our minds, reach decisions, and get something done. For remembrance only will not help us.

Strange as it appears to me as one who fought 10 years of war as a ranker, how that upon this annual observance, solemn as it is, many consider there must be to make the day successful, a lot of brilliantly embroidered sentimentality—The very things our dead comrades and ourselves detested in wartime. I cannot ever subscribe to this.

For a quarter of a century now I have spoken at similar gatherings. And the time is ripe now to speak plainly. For what I try to say is not what you would have me say. But my Remembrance of the Dead. What they expect me to say. Which, after all, is very different from what you'd think. I believe, with all my heart and soul they would say could they but speak to us just these simple truths—out to the ballyhoo.

Act like Christians. Say your prayers. Be loyal to your church and our Great Captain, Jesus Christ. Vote on election day. Pay all your income tax. Give your share to the world's need. Be true comrades to all. And generally stop fooling around, for goodness sake, enquiring "And who is my neighbor?" Follow the finger of Christ and "Go and do thou likewise." I personally believe that today is as good a time as any to begin this.

To ask ourselves a few searching questions, like this:

1) Is my life better now than it was when I served in war?

2) Do I give evidence of being morally and spiritually stronger or weaker in the head by all this poor show of comradeship?

3) Is the general quality of my life indistinguishable from that of any other person because of my war experience?

Don't you think that there is, after all, a certain noblesse oblige in being a Christian or even an ex-service man?

I believe in what my church teaches, "The Communion of Saints." That we are verily one army—the living and the dead. I am quite sure our comrades whom we remember today are happy that we do so. I am equally certain that they are anxious that our remembrance shall develop into deep and true resolve.

One thing I remember—it is that since they left us in two wars many millions more have joined them. And these must have communicated the sad state of this old world they gave all to improve. Don't you think that they would, at least be grieved that things have not changed for the better. That their sacrifices appear to have been in vain. And God forgive me, I'm not being presumptuous or irreverent, I feel sure they'd ask "But what are all those fellows doing about it. Those to whom we bequeathed our Unfinished Task?"

The first war to end war. The second to preserve democracy—and it does seem after all that many have been content to preserve themselves and the old way of life. And now talk of a third war. Which looks as if it might be the finish of everything and everybody. And one would say "Not the finish but the Beginning for all of them below."

Perhaps no spot on earth appeals so powerfully to intellect, emotion or imagination as the Holy Land and the Holy City of Jerusalem. The City of Abraham, David, Solomon, Jesus, Titus, Tancrred and Allenby. I served under the last named in 1917, and took part in the deliverance of Jerusalem. I bear witness to this adventure as a modern Crusade by a bullet mark in my left leg. I recall standing upon Mt. Olivet and gazing down upon the Holy City and thought of the greatest Patriot of all Who wept over it saying "O Jerusalem, O Jerusalem, if thou hadst known! There was One Who could love His country and give full devotion. But Who did not hesitate to prophesy warning of things to come. I am firmly convinced in my own mind as (having lived in Palestine since the first war for seven years) that we cannot go on year after year just remembering. It was Christ as our Captain Who commanded from the beginning "Do this in remembrance of me." But He never intended that we should remember His death alone or His Supreme Sacrifice upon Calvary.

But that as true followers of Him we should resolve to live better and to make this world His Kingdom. I'm sure He yet appeals to all of us "Rise up, O men of God. Have done with lesser things—give heart and soul and mind and strength, to serve the King of Kings."

The most depressing picture of the world today is that of people finding it difficult to live together, as reflected in our family and social lives. Seemingly war made it comparatively easy to die together but has not solved the problem of living together.

The spirit of easy going just because it has no fixed standard of right or wrong, develops into indifference, apathy and inertia. Tolerance does not mean laxity. Knowledge is needed as well. We know far too little about one another. Comradeship, friendship, and neighborliness means putting a little imagination into the working of the Golden Rule. Deliberately setting oneself to see things as others see them. Integrity is also needed. Men and women of character are top requirements. There can be no lasting bond of real comradeship without integrity.

We cannot speak with truth or realism about the future unless we understand the past. It is not enough to remember the Dead. We should also remember that ours is a nation that had its origin in establishment "to the glory of God and the advancement of the Christian faith."

From whence came the people in Canada today?

From the old world, all seeking refuge from tyranny and oppression, from fear and coercion, from famine and difficulty, from wars and threats of annihilation, to find a new life in a new land. Religious liberty to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience. Equal opportunity for all men. Should we not then on this Day of Remembrance recognize our dependence upon God and our responsibility toward Him?

The source of human rights is in God.

The highest role a nation can play is to reflect God's righteousness in national policy.

We need to remember. For there is real danger that all this may be forgotten. We fought for freedom. But freedom is not the right to do as one pleases but the opportunity to please to do what is right. We seek freedom not from the law but in law.

We seek freedom not from government but in government. Not from speech, the press and religion, but in all three. Either these or soon we shall raise the question "Is our government yet of the people, by the people, for the people?"

I could not conclude my talk without giving a message of cheer and hope to those who loved and gave their sons:

"No place is this for human tears—the time for tears is done: Transfigured in those awful years—the two worlds blend in one."

Your boy had visions while in life—of stars, in distant skies; So death came in the midst of strife; a sudden, glad surprise. He found the songs for which he yearned; hopes that had mocked desire;

His heart is resting now, which burned; with such consuming fire."

And in the words of O.L.J.C. "Remember—go thy way, thy son liveth."

To my comrades in the Legion and all others who fought in war let me say "We who have trod the borderlands of death, where courage high walks hand in hand with fear—shall we not hearken what the spirit saith—All ye were brothers there—be brothers here."

Council Honors Departing Citizen

Deputy Mayor Angelo Toppino presided over the last session of the town council due to Mayor Aboussafy being tied up for the first portion of the meet.

Routine business was conducted during the session, including the adoption of a financial statement for the first nine months.

Welfare and relief came in for considerable discussion, council reviewing local problems and studying a plan submitted by the provincial government. This plan, arising out of a meeting of the Interprovincial Nutritional committee meeting, placed before the council a chart showing the food needed for various family combinations. The plan showed the amount of food necessary to provide a balanced diet. Fixing of local prices and an addition of 10 per cent would determine the amount of money needed for each separate relief applicant.

On motion of the council the relief committee will study the plan and bring back a recommendation. This committee was also instructed to contact various people to serve on a welfare board for the town.

An application was received from J. Koury, asking for a tax stand at the Coleman Hotel. As this area had been granted to W. Kleviski the request could not be granted.

Further correspondence informed the council that Civil Defence staff officers would visit the area on Tuesday, November 24th. It was moved that these men be notified that the council meets in regular session that night and would welcome a visit from them. No Jaywalking By-Law In Town

The police report was presented showing 72 complaints received and attended to and 216 warnings given regarding trucks, cars, liquor and children on bikes. Discussion was held again regarding overloading of coal trucks and these points illustrated with pictures. As the result of the report one councillor asked if a by-law existed in regards to jaywalking, and received the answer that no by-law was in effect.

The matter of trucks using the area set aside as a pedestrian path from West Coleman resulted in the town's decision to replace poles at the west end to stop this. Trucks were reported crowding the pedestrians. It was felt that the poor condition of the road at the crossing resulted in trucks using the path, and although all the road does not lie in the town limits, that portion coming onto the hard surface will be repaired.

Departing Citizen Honored
Councillors Wood and Ramsay rose at practically the same moment at the close of business to voice their regrets at the departure of P. A. Dickleson from the town. Council as a body expressed the opinion that Mr. Dickleson was the type of man that Coleman should be bringing in rather than losing. As much as they would like to have expressed their appreciation of his civic spirit in a more tangible way, council moved that a letter of thanks and appreciation be mailed him.

School Highlights (By Mary Wilson)

For approximately eight years now the students of Coleman high school have set aside one week in November as their Sadie Hawkins Week.

During these five days, filled with as much excitement as the few days before the prom, the school is just buzzing with activity.

The rules that were to be followed by the students were:

- 1) The girls must ask and escort the boy of her choice to the party at the end of the week.
- 2) The girls must do whatever the boy asks (within reason).
- 3) All girls refusing to do as states will be awarded with penalties.
- 4) Any boy who is caught doing something for a girl will be penalized.
- 5) The days will commence at 8:30 and end at 4:30.
- 6) Any person reporting a penalty must state the charge, the name of the person being charged and must have the signatures of two witnesses.

Penalties were awarded at least 60 students on Thursday after school.

The highlight of the week occurred on Friday when the penalties were carried out. All day the students were made to come dressed as whatever their penalty required.

I am sure that most of the adults who were watching the after-school activities thought we were all crazy. But really, folks, we aren't. We're just full of fun.

We must, of course, give special thanks to the teachers on the high school staff for tolerating so much nonsense all week. They were really wonderful and good sports about the whole deal.

I think that there should be some explanation about the downtown activities on Friday. The wedding ceremony, which I am sure most of you saw, really stole the show. Adela Zimook, as the bride, and Don Sumanik, as the groom, must get some praise for being such good sports. Bob Ryphen, a well known boy around our school, fulfilled the part of the marrying preacher, and, I may add, he did it perfectly. Nice going, kids.

The serenading in front of the Grand Union was done to June Killanoy by Ken Laithwaite. I must say Romeo, you sing beautifully.

While all this was going on Ken Koury, with his one-inch ruler, was measuring the sidewalk. His result — 1964 inches (I think). Sore back, Ken?

Hitler speech was given by George Wesko in front of the post office. This drew a laughing crowd. Why didn't you tell us you were so talented, George?

I mustn't forget to mention our president, Wallace Neale. Should I say Fifi? Wallace, whom I don't think many of you saw downtown, came to school dressed as a French maid. What beautiful legs you have, Fifi!

Well, I could rhyme off many more, but I think most of you saw whatever was going on anyway.

We wound up the week with a very successful party on Friday night. Everyone in attendance enjoyed an evening of dancing. Refreshments were served during the intermission.

To end all penalties, George

Jenkins had to serenade Helen Makowichuk at the party.

It was nice to see such a good turnout that evening, and I hope that the following dances will be as successful as this one.

"The Chemistry Of Fire"
Civil Defence Lecture

(Contributed)

Approximately 50 persons attended the Civil Defence school held on Thursday, November 5 in the Coleman high school.

For the general public Mr. McDonald lectured on the chemistry of fire. A film "The Chemistry of Fire" was shown, which paralleled Mr. McDonald's lecture.

Before a fire can result three conditions must be satisfied. One, a fuel which vaporizes must be in the presence of (2) oxygen, and must have its temperature (3) raised above the kindling point. Control of any one of these three—fuel, oxygen or temperature will result in the control of fire.

The film showed how fire can be overcome by cutting off the supply of oxygen to the fuel and by lowering the temperature of the fuel.

After the lecture, the various sections of the Civil Defence continued with their own particular work.

The Fox and The Grapes

A HUNGRY FOX saw some fine bunches of Grapes hanging from a vine that was trained along a high trellis, and did his best to reach them by jumping as high as he could into the air. But it was all in vain, for they were just out of reach: so he gave up trying, and walked away with an air of dignity and unconcern, remarking, "I thought those Grapes were ripe, but I see now they are quite sour."

Civil Defence Lecture

Although far from ideal, the attendance at the C.D. school has shown an increase in the past two classes. It is felt that the public should show more interest as most of those attending are C.D. workers.

MEASURING THE BORES

Tunnel template being used in British Columbia to prepare 41 district tunnels for the arrival of Canadian Pacific Railways' "scenic dome" observation cars next year, is an accurate, efficient, if makeshift contraption consisting of two-by-fours and twigs. Acting as delicate template "fingers", the twigs probe the sides and arc of tunnels, and irregular, projecting rock is later stopped, or excavated. Here, a C.P.R. crew commences work in a curving tunnel west of Kamloops on the Vancouver Division.

On Thurs. Nov. 12 Mr. S Ondrus lectured the group on chemical warfare. He defined a gas as any substance having poisonous effects on man used for the purpose of killing or causing injuries. He divided gases into two main groups the persistent gases, those which are do not disperse from an area but linger and the area must be decontaminated, and the non-persistent, those which are dispersed by weather. In these groups are found the types according to their effect. The types on nerve, choking, tear, and hose gases. Mr. Ondrus outlined the effects of each, along with what protection is given by a respirator and what first aid can be given on exposure.

After the general lectures, the Civil Defense groups at tended their own assigned lectures.

Miss Clemis matron of the C.N.P. Municipal Hospital lectured home nursing section on first aid treatment. She emphasized the need of knowing correct first aid appliance and the ability to apply the right treatment at the right time using the possible means at hand.

Altona, Manitoba, Sunflower Capital, Reaps Good Crop

ALTONA, Man. — It's harvest time around North America's sunflower capital and the farmers, through their co-operative here, expect to squeeze out a good profit.

The oil extracted from the seed will be put to many uses, among them the manufacture of shortening, salad oil and oleo-margarine.

Some will be used for lubricating delicate types of machinery and the meal finds a market as cattle feed.

Co-op Vegetable Oils Ltd., the only sunflower oil extracting plant on the continent, reported that the first 35 growers to complete deliveries had an average yield of 993 pounds an acre.

Early indications, the co-op said, point to a record yield per acre with a price of $4.50 for every 100 pounds. Total acreage is 4,500.

Last year's 3,500-acre crop was worth $117,000 to farmers in this district 69 miles south of Winnipeg.

Judging from farmers' comments in southern Manitoba a decided increase in acreage is expected in 1954, the co-op said. "The reason for this is mainly because of unsold grains in pluggers storage bins on the farm and the fact that sunflowers are a cash crop that can be marketed immediately after harvest."

The yellow-blossomed flower was grown on small scale in Manitoba in the years before the Second World War with most of the seed being used for human consumption.

The wartime shortage of oils led the government to encourage increased production and in 1943 producers around Altona began work on the extraction plant. It went into operation in 1946.

The directions for making the three units shown at bottom of sketch are on one pattern. The three units may be used separately, or they may be combined for use as shown. They were designed to solve various problems in furnishing a small room. The open side of the record cabinet may be either on the right or left. Also the doors may be hinged on the side that is most convenient for the location in which it is to be used. The pattern gives large three-dimensional drawings which show the size of each part of the three units and how the pieces are assembled into the finished unit. The price of the pattern is only 35c and will be mailed the day your order is received.

Large detailed drawings on the pattern show each step from making the frame to the finished job as it appears in the sketch. Pattern also carries perspective drawings with diagrams to show how six and three-quarters yards of forty-eight-inch-wide material may be cut to make a cover for a full length thirty-nine-inch wide bed and covering for the front of the bedding compartment. The upholstery directions are full and complete on pattern 299. To get a copy send 35c with name and address and pattern will be mailed the day your order is received.

The extraction process consists of drying the seed to a uniform moisture content. After removal of the husks, the meats are fed into a cooker where heat is applied to permit the maximum percentage of oil to be removed. The oil is squeezed out in a machine known as an expeller.

Tourist Traffic To P.A. Park Hits Record

PRINCE ALBERT.—Record figures on tourist traffic to Saskatchewan beauty spots were reported here.

The Board of Trade said traffic to the Prince Albert National Park was the greatest on record, with a total of 117,899 persons making their way to Waskesiu, an increase of 12,000 over 1952 and 33,000 over 1951.

Some 7,500 tourists went to Lac la Ronge, about 1,500 more than last year, leaving 70,000.

There was an increase of 11,000 cars entering the Prince Albert Park—30,480 Canadian cars as compared to 28,000 in 1952. United States tourist traffic was much the same for the last three years, reaching 1,292 cars this year.

The Editor Tells His Fish Story

Mr. Otto Johnson of Bashaw, Alta., insisted that Editor T. M. Brimhead of The Bashaw Star, tell about his July fishing trip, and the following appeared in The Star:

"Your Editor went fishing with a brother who lives at Lac la Biche. He supplied the finest of his rods and reels and baits. The pair of us made several excursions to his favorite fishing spot on Beaver lake.

"Each time it was the same. "He would catch our fish with no effort while we could not entice a single one to nibble. "Finally, in desperation, we went out to the lake alone—but no luck.

"As we packed up our gear a small fish poked his head above water and yelled, 'Hey, where's your brother this time?'"

Experiment With Soil Mixtures On Trial Section Of Alta. Highway

Seven miles of Alberta highway have been given base courses of soil cement and soil asphalt in an attempt by the Department of Highways to find a cheaper and more efficient way of building heavy traffic roads.

Location of the trial stretch is west of Clyde Corner to Westlock Highway No. 15, 56 miles north of Edmonton. Part of the section of road is soil cement and part is soil asphalt. Both the soil asphalt and soil cement bases will be six inches in depth and covered with a rock chip surface, three-quarters of an inch thick.

Using soil as an ingredient in asphalt and cement road base mixtures has not been tried in Alberta previously, but it has been used in part of the United States. The U.S. Air Force's construction units have found soil cement an efficient and cheap method of building emergency landing strips. The Canadian Army has made some preliminary trials of the material.

The Chennells Construction Company is carrying out the work here under contract to the Department of Highways.

A special machine is used to lay the base courses. Known as a stabilizer, it is a high, tracked vehicle powered with two 130-horsepower Diesel motors. A tank truck, holding oil if the sub-grade is to be asphalt, or water if it is to be soil cement, is connected to the front of the stabilizer and a hose carries the fluid to the mixing part of the machine.

In laying the soil cement, dry cement is spread on the soil. The mixing is done by a unit at the rear of the machine, consisting of three rotating shafts, equipped with cutting teeth, blending blades and paddles. 3062

Funny and Otherwise

It was suggested that a certain Scottish peer, not remarkable for his intelligence, should be given the Order of the Thistle. When the name was put before the high authority who decides the offering of such honours, that authority said: "Oh, no, we mustn't give him the Thistle. He'd eat it."

A thrifty man went to a lawyer for advice. After the interview he ran into an acquaintance and told him about it.

"But why spend money on a lawyer?" asked the other. "When you sat in his office, did you see all the law books there? Well, what he told you you could read in those books."

"You're right," admitted the advice-seeker, "but that lawyer—he knows what page it's on."

At a cocktail party a woman asked a friend: "Where's that pretty maid who was handing round cocktails just now?"

"Are you looking for a drink?" asked the friend. "Can I get you one?"

"No, thank you. I don't want a drink just now. I'm looking for my husband."

A woman tourist in Africa was admiring a native warrior's necklace. "What are those things?" she asked. "Alligator teeth, mamam," replied the native.

"Oh, I see. I suppose they have the same value for your people that pearls have for us."

"Not quite," he answered gravely. "Anybody can open an oyster."

The trainer of a horse that was never in the money called a jockey.

"This nag is going stale," he said. "He needs a stiff workout. See what you can do."

"You want me to ride him round the track?" asked the jockey.

The trainer sighed. "No," he corrected, "just run in front and pace him."

A husband arrived home one evening and gave his wife an insurance policy. "I've insured my life for ten thousand," he said, "so that if anything happens to me you will be provided for."

"How thoughtful of you," beamed his wife. "Now you won't have to see a doctor every time you feel ill, will you?"

Jobber: "Have you any letters of reference?"

Salesman: "Sure, read this." Jobber: "To whom it may concern: Bill Johnson worked for us one week, and we are satisfied."

More Buying Canada Bonds

More people are buying more bonds in Canada today than they have done for a good many years, banking and bond house officials report.

Since the opening on Oct. 19 of the eighth Canada Savings Bond campaign all recent sales records have been surpassed and if the present pace continues across Canada it is not beyond the realm of possibility that all Canada Savings bond sales records will be broken and new ones set.

The Canada Saving bond now being offered bears the highest interest rate ever offered on this type of government guaranteed bond. The rate is 3.75 per cent. and the bond is a 12 year issue. This means that a $100 bond at the end of the 12th year will have returned the owner $145 and for a $1,000 bond, $1,450. These bonds are available at all banks and bond dealers in values of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. No one person can obtain more than $5,000 worth but every member of a family can have up to $5,000 each.

Regional headquarters of the various banking institutions declare that Canada Savings bond sales in the country this year are showing signs of being larger than in previous years and if the impetus shown across the Dominion is also carried into prairie rural areas there should be an increase worth while.

In past years Saskatchewan people have purchased in the vicinity of $20,000,000 of these bonds either through their bank or bond house or through payroll savings plan schemes at plants where they work. Canada Savings bonds are cashable at any bank at full purchase price on any business day, plus accrued interest.

DON'T BE A DRIFTER

Don't be a drifter; have a purpose that's true. Plan for some goal; have worthwhile work to do. Let every day, every step forward you take.

Bring you closer to it for your heart's sake. Don't be a drifter; spring soon to summer gives way; Then as if o'night autumn is here to stay. The gifts you long hoarded meaning to use them all. Unused will have vanished—gone beyond recall.

Don't be a drifter; how sad the man's fate Who strives to catch up when it is too late; Who let golden moments just fritter away. Yet never one thought that years do not stay.

Don't be a drifter, have a purpose in view. Let each new day hold something for you. You'll not be defeated, nor filled with remorse When your strength is spent; When you've finished the course.

Statistics Show Saturday Night Bad Time For Road Accidents

REGINA. — Road accidents in Saskatchewan during September took 16 lives according to statistics received from the Highway Traffic Board. Fatalities for the month jumped 100 per cent over September of 1952.

J. A. Christie, chairman of the traffic board reports that 77 persons, 46 of them drivers have been killed in accidents to the end of September. During September, eight drivers were killed, four more than in the same month last year.

The statistics show that 397 persons were injured in accidents during September, bringing the year's total to 2,275 drivers, passengers, pedestrians, cyclists, tractor operators, and occupants of other vehicles.

There were eight passengers killed during September, bringing the total to 21 so far in 1953, the same amount as listed in the same period during 1952.

The number of pedestrians injured is up from 17 in September, 1952, to 21 during September of this year. Twelve cyclists were injured during September compared to 13 last year. Three motor-cycle accidents were reported last month compared to four last year.

Saturday night is still the bad time for road accidents with most of them occurring between the hours of 11 p.m. and midnight. During August, Saturday night between the hours of nine and 10 o'clock saw the most accidents. On a weekly basis, more accidents take place from 5 to 6 p.m. than at any other time.

Saturday is well ahead of the other days in the week for accidents, with Sunday in second place. For some reason, Wednesday sees the least number of road mishaps. The action of drivers was blamed for 70 per cent of the urban accidents and 39 per cent of rural accidents.

Christmas Parcels To U.K. By "Care"

In honor of Coronation year CARE, a non-profit organization formed to help needy people all over the world, has prepared a special list of parcels for delivery in Britain. These parcels are duty free and budget-priced and could not possibly be duplicated for the price by individual purchase.

With Christmas not too far away and the need for extra rations still great in Britain, Canadians would be well advised to look into the selection offered and decide what parcels they are going to send. Early decision will avoid disappointment as there is usually a rush at the last minute that cannot possibly be handled to insure pre-Christmas delivery.

Among the gala assortments of parcels a whole ham or fully dressed turkey may be sent. There are all-meat parcels and mixed food parcels or one containing nothing but much-needed jars.

There is a budget food parcel, one of baby food, and two staple parcels, one containing household linens and the other a 100 per cent. wool blanket to bolster a meagre linen cupboard.

By writing "Care," Mr. Neil MacNeil, director for Canada, 73 Albert street, Ottawa, full particulars in placing orders for parcels will receive prompt attention.

Barley And Oats Best Yields In Southwest Sask.

In tests carried on in the southwestern corner of Saskatchewan both barley and oats were found to produce more pounds of grain per acre than wheat. Long-term averages show that barley yielded 1,392 pounds per acre, oats 1,184 pounds and wheat 1,052 pounds. Wheat and barley are about equal pound for pound in feeding value but oats is a little less valuable.

An eagle's nest usually is about three feet across and one foot high.

MODERN SQUARE DANCING

When you hear the call "Everybody up and form your squares", you know that you are going to participate in one of the friendliest and most entertaining forms of recreation. You know that everyone is out to have fun. If you miss the call there are guiding hands and smiling faces to put you into the swing of the dance. The oldest square dancer does all he can to help the new dancer to learn because he is fully aware that the more dancers there are the more the spirit of fellowship is spread throughout the country.

In the days of our grandfathers and even the days of some of our fathers every square was a pattern that was more or less memorized. With the tremendous upsurge of square dancing in the past few years callers have tried to break the monotony of repetition with the introduction of "breaks". Modern square dancing, or Western style of dancing as it is sometimes called, has all the old basic pattern as a framework and adds these breaks all through the dance to add an element of expectancy and surprise. It is not necessary to learn a pattern for each square since the caller does all the thinking and instructing. It is only required of the dancer to listen and walk. The caller alone knows what break he is going to mix with the dance. Yes—grandfather's dance is still there but something new has been added. One form of dancing that has not been changed from grandfather's day is the Round or Couples' dance. The oldtime schottisches, polkas, and waltzes are very much in evidence. Many new dances have been added. These round dances also include the numerous mixers where partners are exchanged all through the dance.

The next time that call to form your squares goes through the hall let us be there among the thousands all over the country who enjoy the spontaneous, free, and friendly spirit of the square dance.

St. Alban's Holds Remembrance Service

St. Alban's Anglican Church was filled on Sunday evening the 1st of November when members of the Legion, the Ladies' Auxiliary, RCNEMES, Cadets and others attended divine service.

It was appropriate that on All Saints' Day the remembrance of those who gave their lives in war as well in peace were commemorated.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion presented their new standard flag for dedication at the altar.

Mr. Harry Wilton Clarke, as honorary president of the local branch of the Legion, read the first lesson from the 44th chapter Ecclesiasticus, and Lieutenant E. A. Fontana read the second lesson from the 9th verse of the 7th chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Harry Moss, chaplain to the Legion.
